OBJECTIVES

The purpose of this series of one-day conferences for junior coal miners is to bring together all those involved in junior coal-mining and related industries in order to provide a forum for the acquisition and exchange of relevant and practical information, the creation of networking opportunities and the exposure of a variety of support services.

MOTIVATION

The South African junior mining development plays an extremely important role in satisfying the increasing demands of local and international export bituminous and anthracitic markets in the short, medium and long term future.

Given that the initiation and sustaining of mining projects of any kind, and specifically coal projects are extremely complex and arduous, this conference - the fifth in this series - aims to address selected practical, logistical, legal, marketing and financial aspects for those involved in or associated with junior coal mining ventures.

It will also address the usage of the coals in the region along with the issues concerning environmental constraints imposed in certain geographical areas and the potential of alternate uses of coal for energy.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Coal mining venture developers, mining service companies, equipment suppliers, mining contractors, logistics organisations, coal users in all sectors of the energy and heat-producing markets, environmentalists, financing companies, technical consultants, marketing organisations and provincial and governmental representatives – and all who may have a role to play in coal industrialisation.
